“I, Hermann Künig von Vach,
want to write, so help me God,
a little book that will be called
-The Pilgrimage and Path to Saint James-. There I wish to describe routes and paths and how every brother of Saint James may find food and drink...”

Hermann Künig, 1495

Künig's Pilgrim's guide

Hermann Künig von Vach, a monk in the Servite Order in Vacha (Germany), wrote in 1495 a Pilgrim's guide where he describes places and distances, and gives advice and useful information for the pilgrimage to Santiago de Compostela.

This guide, printed five times and mainly aimed at German pilgrims, testifies to the importance of the pilgrimage to Santiago de Compostela along this alternative route of the French Way through Lugo at the end of the 15th century.

Written in rhyming verse, in Künig's guide we discover tales and legends about the Camino and his own experience as a pilgrim.

A trip which transports us back to the day-to-day life of the pilgrim: housing, choice of paths, money-changing, tolls to be paid, bridges and where to find help.

The route followed by Hermann Künig begins in the German town of Vacha and enters the Iberian peninsula in Roncesvalles. When he is about to enter Galicia, in Herrerías de Valcárcel, he turns off to Pedrafita and then goes on to As Nogais, Becerreá, Baralla and O Corgo until he arrives in the city of Lugo. There he joins the Primitive Way to Santiago de Compostela.
